Background

Mr. Davis is part of Englander Fischer's business litigation team, which represents commercial, non-profit and institutional clients in a wide variety of business and commercial matters. He first came to the firm as a law clerk while attending the University of Florida's Levin College of Law. Working alongside some of our most knowledgeable partners and gaining first-hand experience in business law and litigation, Mr. Davis proved to be a valuable asset to the Englander Fischer team. He officially came on board as an associate in the fall of 2015.

In his prestigious law school career, Mr. Davis was named a Levin College of Law Scholar and received the Holland & Knight Scholarship. He proudly holds a bachelor's degree from Louisiana State University, where he double majored in history and political science.

Mr. Davis was born and raised in St. Petersburg, where he attended St. Petersburg Catholic High School. He spends his free time reading, enjoying downtown St. Petersburg, and supporting his LSU Fighting Tigers (along with whichever team happens to be playing the Alabama Crimson Tide).
